

I wish lots of success to your initiative. We live in an unreal world where what ought to be patently obvious, i.e. that we are forced by US power to take part in a GM experiment where the outcome will almost certainly be to our peril, all politicians and those in power tell us that we ought to be grateful to those multinational companies who do actually put us in this peril. Honest and brave people like you ought to carry our gratitude to expose this charade.

Best wishes,

Arpad
