

10 days of hunger strike during the JIGMOM

Leba, March 24 – April 1

Our HOPE: No GMO on Mother Earth No more, no patenting genes at all. We also support the French Call for a Moratorium on GMOs and the Krakow Counter-manifestation in parallel to the International Conference on Biotechnology in Agriculture, 25-27th of April 2007.

We will be on Baltic seaside: Leba, 11 Wroblewskiego str. Poland from March 24 until April 1. <http://www.damroka.com.pl/>

The Baltic Sea town of Leba is located in Middle Pomerania, 110 km from Gdansk, on the right bank of the river from which it takes its name. To the east lies Lake Sarbsko, while to the west is Lake Lebsko. The town is surrounded by beautiful pine woods and has a population of 4,000.

Leba is a health resort with a mild sea climate, with iodine and salt in the air, a high sunshine record, strong winds from the sea as well rapid changes of atmospheric conditions.

Leba

Each year in the peak season, the lovely fishing port of Leba is crammed with tourists drawn by the allure of sand, sea and nature – even when the neighbouring resorts are empty. Although Leba has little to offer in terms of historic sights, there are still some pleasant nooks, the famous shifting dunes and other attractions of the unique Slowinski National Park to marvel at. Once there, it is easy to understand why Leba is such an immensely popular holiday resort.
